RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

Bank Performance and Economic Growth in South Asia September 2026
The Role of Human Capital Development and Governance · Undergraduate thesis (pooled OLS, interaction models) Grade A+
Supervisor: Prof. Syed A. Mamun, PhD, FCMA, Department of Economics and Social Sciences, BRAC University.

- Examined whether bank performance (ROA) is associated with GDP growth in South Asia, and whether human capital development and governance moderate the relationship.
- Constructed a panel of 668 bank-year observations from commercial banks in Bangladesh, India, Maldives, Nepal and Sri Lanka (2017–2024), combining annual-report data with IMF WEO, World Bank WDI/WGI and UNDP HDI indicators.
- Estimated baseline and interaction models using pooled OLS, with correlation, VIF and country-level robustness checks.
- Found a negative, statistically insignificant direct effect of ROA on growth; the ROA × human capital interaction was positive and significant, while ROA × governance was positive but insignificant.
- Drew policy implications for banking-sector development and education and skills investment.

Antecedents and Consequences of the Default Risk of Banks Spring 2025
ECO432 Money and Banking term paper · Z-score, Tobin's Q, panel data Group of five

- Analyzed determinants of default risk (Z-score) using CAR, ROA and ROE for four Bangladeshi private banks: BRAC Bank, Bank Asia, AB Bank and Al-Arafah Islami Bank.
- Tested the effect of default risk on market valuation (Tobin's Q), with NPLs as a control, in two econometric models. Instructor: Prof. Syed A. Mamun.
